Independent Emergency Medicine Group + Multiple Group Collaboration = IEPC

Join IEPC and benefit from collaboration with many similar emergency medicine groups while maintaining your independent group culture.

A single branch is easily breakable, but tied together, a group of branches gains much strength.

Helping Emergency Physicians Deliver Superior Patient Care...

Who We Are

Independent Emergency Physicians Consortium (IEPC) is an independent group of more than 700 emergency medicine physicians and practitioners representing more than 30 independent emergency departments in California. IEPC represents a diverse consortium of emergency department groups bound by a common goal of strengthening our practices, learning from each other, and providing superior health care. The groups range in size from smaller community hospitals to large urban teaching institutions with trauma centers. All groups are small businesses owned by emergency physicians whose doctors have an intimate bond with their hospital and community.

IEPC was established in 2011 and serves more than 1 million patients per year across the state. Our patients have come to know firsthand how deeply we care about them, our hospitals and our communities. As smaller independent practice groups we strive to provide the best health care to our patients and hospitals. Our physicians are experts in emergency medicine. They have served as leaders of the American Academy of Emergency Medicine (AAEM), the American College of Emergency Physicians (ACEP), and the California Medical Association (CMA). They have been presidents of the California chapter of ACEP and have been extensively involved in local, state, and national medical politics. They have authored books, published research, served as expert witness, performed nation-wide medical reviews, and are well-known speakers and educators.

The IEPC Difference

IEPC provides the best of both worlds: a small independent group practice with the power of a large group business. IEPC member benefits include benchmarking data, shared innovations, learning best clinical practices, group purchasing power, and better business strategies, while maintaining an independent and flexible culture that best serves the hospital and patients.
